FACULTIES SELECTED

Board of Education Announces Faculties for State School.

Saturday the state board of education gave out the long expected list of appointments of positions in the various state schools. Quite a number of changes were made in the various faculties and the number of teachers reduced materially, some departments being combined and other being entirely abolished. Among the latter are the commercial departments, expression instrumental music, and the positions of matron and librarian. In the Ada normal the faculty has been reduced to about fifteen teachers, saving the state something like $6,000 per year in the cost of maintenance. The vice presidency of the various normals was abolished.

It will be noted that aside from these whose positions were abolished only a few changes were made in the faculty of the Ada normal. The departments of psychology and pedagogy were combined and placed under the direction of Prof. Perkins. Prof. Lilly, who has held the chair of psychology was given the choice of biology in the Ada normal, psychology and pedagogy at Alva or English at Edmond. He has not fully decided which he will accept but at present thinks he will likely remain here.

Following is the list of teachers appointed for Ada:

Ada Normal—President, C. W. Briles; psychology and pedagogy, M. L. Perkins; history, R. G. Sears; assistant history, W. L. Riddle; English, W. D. Little; mathematics, A. L. H. Cox; drawing, Miss Turner; public school music, Miss Van Wormer; secretary and registrar, Lola Champlain; janitor, A. N. Harrison; critic teachers, no appointment.

TAFT WITHDRAWS NEGRO'S APPOINTMENT

Washington, June 12.—Heeding the protests from Oklahoma President Taft today informed Congressmen Morgan and McGuire of Oklahoma that the appointment of W. T. Vernon, a negro, to the position of assistant supervisor of Indian schools of the five civilized tribes should be withdrawn.

The announcement of the appointment of Vernon raised a storm of protest throughout the eastern section of Oklahoma among those with whom the negro would have to come in contact. The Indians especially were indignant and petitions were circulated in almost every county of old Indian territory and signed not only by Indians, but hundreds of whites. State Senator Lundrum, a Cherokee Indian, circulated the petition at the state house in Oklahoma City and Governor Cruce and practically all of the state officials signed it.

Office is Important.

The position of assistant supervisor of the Indian schools for the Five Civilized Tribes is an important one and would have placed Vernon second in control of all government schools conducted by the government for the education of the Cherokees, Chickasaws, Choctaws, Creeks and Seminoles. Vernon would have also come in contact with many of the state officials who have business relations with the Indian schools.

The petitions circulated in Oklahoma stated that the appointment of Vernon would have engendered race prejudice and operated to nullify the separate school laws of the state. Vernon will be appointed assistant superintendent of the schools in which negroes and Indians are pupils. He will not be permanently assigned to any one state, but will cover all states in which such schools are located.

Rev. S. F. Goddard left this morning on a business trip to Muskogee.

NORMAL BEGINS SUMMER TERM

Two Hundred Students on the Ground and Many More Coming.

The Normal building has been the scene of great activity today. Students from all over the state have been crowding the rooms and corridors and enrolling as rapidly as possible. The work of placing the students has been greatly assisted by the generosity of G. M. Ramsey, J. D. Lassater, R. E. Blanks, A. L. Beck, Geo. Frierson and E. W. Hardin who placed their autos at the disposal of the normal. Yesterday and today the incoming students have been met at the train and taken to the boarding places assigned them, and the same will be done tomorrow.

When the News reporter visited the normal at 2:40 the registration was 137 and many more had not had the opportunity to enroll. Just as the reporter left Mrs. Bills arrived from the Katy train with twenty more. It is safe to say that by night the enrollment will have reached 200. President is confident that with such an auspicious beginning the enrollment will reach 500. As will be noted from the list below students are here from all quarters of the state and some from other states.

The following teachers compose the faculty: President Briles, Profs. Perkins, Lilly, Sears, Fentem, Little, Gay, of McAlester, Bowers of Ravia, McElvey of Lehigh, Hinkle of Hickory, Roddie, Cox, Newman, of Sulphur, and Misses Clarke, Knight, Turetn, Van Wormer and Ryble.

The formal opening will take place tomorrow morning at 8:30.

It is expected that Rev. David W. SURPRISE STORE

SPREADING OUT

R. W. Shupson, the hustling proprietor of the Surprise Store, finds it necessary to enlarge his quarters in order that he may properly handle his growing trade. He has leased the Conn building adjoining his present store building, and is having a concrete floor put down and the building itself extended some thirty feet back. Arches will be put in the wall and the big stock of goods placed to much better advantage than is possible in the present quarters.

CHAUTAUQUA HAS OPENED

Seven Days of Entertainment for Citizens of Ada and Vicinity.

The chautauqua course opened this afternoon with a concert by the noted Orpheans, but this number comes too late for a report in this issue of the News. Ticket sales have been good and a most successful season is promised for the second chautauqua.

The program tonight is to consist of Strickland Gillilan, newspaper magazine and platform poet and humorist (of "Off agin, on Agin, Gone Agin—Finnigan fame." There will be a prelude by the Orphean Male Quartette, which made such splendid music and such an excellent impression this afternoon.

Gillilan's entertainment consists of a lecture of continuous monologue of purely original matter done in a purely original manner. The bulk of it is humorous, all of it unusual and striking. He interweaves bits of his own serious and humorous verse and several of his very best humorous stories. The "flavoring extract" he uses is love of home and children, the exultation of the simple, homely joys and virtues of life.

The Daily Oklahoman, commenting on Mr. Gillilan's appearance in Oklahoma City Saturday night, says:

"Strickland Gillilan, the incomparable humorist, came, saw and conquered the hearts of a large audience at the Tabernacle last night. He not only says funny things, but combines with the sayings a manner that is irresistible in itself. Gillilan is an optimist and, by the way, explains the difference between an optimist and a cheerful idiot."

Tomorrow's program will be both inspiring and instructive. Dr. John Merritte Driver, formerly pastor of the People's church, Chicago, and a novelist and composer of rare ability will give in the afternoon his magnificent lecture "America Facing the Far East." This is a splendid oratorical achievement, and is well worth a longer trip to the Normal, and a large cost than the admission price.

In the evening Col. G. A. Gearhart, who is a prime favorite among lovers of oratory in Ada, and who is so well known as to render compliment or introduction superfluous, will lecture on a subject to be announced in Tuesday's paper. That both these great orators should have and will have an attendance proportionate to their rare merits, goes without saying.

SEMINOLE DEPUTY SHERIFF KILLED

Wynoka, June 10.—(Special).—Wynoka, a deputy sheriff, was killed after he had killed one negro and wounded another in a battle at a negro picnic just north of the little town of Seminole Saturday afternoon, according to meager reports which have reached here Saturday night.

According to the report Smith was trying to arrest one of the negroes for carrying a concealed weapon, and the negro drew a gun on the officer, who had been deputized to preserve peace during the picnic. When the weapon flashed others drew their guns and knives and a general fight followed.

May Go to Ozarks for Water.

Tulsa, Ok., June 11.—That Tulsa, as well as other cities in Oklahoma ever expect to get a supply of water free from alkali and other injurious substances they will have to go to the Ozark Mountains in Arkansas or Missouri is the opinion of water experts who have been working upon such a scheme for several months.

The plan was first broached by Oklahoma City and now Tulsa and Sapulpa are getting interested in it with the view of taking part in it. Tulsa draws its water supply from the Arkansas River, which is ample for all purposes and has never failed but pure water from the Ozarks will it is argued, prove far better than this river water from a health standpoint. At an estimated cost of $3,500,000 a thirty-inch line can be laid from here to the Ozarks which will carry enough water to supply a city of 75,000 population. The river could always be drawn upon in an emergency.

CHEAP CATTLE FEED

Millionaire Wisconsin Dairyman Makes Important Discovery.

Process Worked Out Whereby Limbs, Branches and Twigs of Tree Shrubs May Be Utilized for Fattening Purposes.

Marinette, Wis.—C. I. Cook, a millionaire dairyman and market gardener of this city, has just given to the world the results of several years' study on the problem of securing a cheap and effective food for cattle of all kinds, that promises to revolutionize dairying in the northern portion of the country this year and which in a short time will be taken up by all the newly settled districts of the entire country. Mr. Cook has completed the working out of a process whereby a food for cattle, as well as farm stock of all kinds, can be attained from the limbs, branches and twigs of tree shrubs, which accumulate during the clearing of lands.

The discovery of this process reads like a romance to those who give it but a passing thought, but to the student of agriculture and dairying methods it is simply the adapting of old methods to new uses.

Mr. Cook, before he took up farming to any extent, was a wholesale grocer and still owns large interests in this line. He has always been a student of nature and a lover of outdoor life. Some years ago, while hunting in northern Wisconsin, he noted that the deer had eaten the ends of the branches of shrubs and trees down to a point where the limbs were over one-half inch in diameter. Having just purchased 3,500 acres of wild, cutover lands, which he intended to develop for dairying and market gardening, his next thought was naturally the adapting of this woody food to farm animals. He reasoned that the digestive organs of a deer and a cow were greatly similar and that the cow would thrive on this same food if prepared in a palatable form.

A little later he secured some of the branches of an alder shrub and beat them into a pulp with a hammer. He then offered a quantity of it to a cow, but bossy promptly turned the mixture down and would have nothing to do with it. A quantity of it was then placed before her and her regular food ration was cut off. Upon returning next day it was found that cow had eaten all of the pulp and that she relished it. More of it was supplied and strict tests as to quantity and quality of milk were made. Within a few days clover and timothy had no charm for the cow when wood pulp was available. The milk tests showed a heavier flow and Mr. Cook then came to the decision that he had run upon a discovery that called for further attention.

He began a search for a grinder that would answer the purpose and found the article desired with a St. Louis firm. Wood ground in the machine was then submitted to experts and tests showed that it contained more protein than did clover or timothy hay.

The grinder has since been installed by Mr. Cook in a building in this city and in clearing new lands Mr. Cook has ordered that every twig and branch not large enough for firewood be turned over to the grinder. Several types of food have been made, some of them adapted to growing calves, others to milk cows and still others to beef cattle. Some of the Suppose you could BUY 100 additional REGULAR CUSTOMERS during the next week or two—customers who, for years and years to come, would make a MAJORITY of their purchases of goods in your line at YOUR STORE? What would each of these 100 customers be worth to you?

It is, we think, quite likely that if such an investment were possible, you'd eagerly pay TWICE AS MUCH as it would cost you to secure these 100 REGULAR CUSTOMERS through an advertising campaign big enough and aggressive enough to really make people ACQUAINTED with your store.

The editor of the Democrat went to church Sunday evening, and as he entered the door Judge Wilmon arose and led the congregation in singing "There's a Stranger at the Door." This was almost too much, but the whole congregation in harmonious accord, added, "Let Him In," and that was sufficient—Carnegie Democrat.

BOLL WEEVILS SCARCE

According to reports received by W. D. Hunter, in charge of the laboratory of the United States Agricultural Department, the boll weevil is scarcer in Texas than in many years.

This thinning out is due to the two very hot and dry summers just passed and to the very dry weather of the last few weeks. He says that hot weather and drouth are the worst enemies of the boll weevil. The heat and drouth cause the squares on the cotton plants to dry up and fall off and the weevil then can not thrive.

This does not injure the cotton, but merely makes the plant grow larger and causes the bolls to open later, which somewhat adds to the danger of frost. The only boll weevils reported in any numbers in Texas are in the wooded valleys along the Gulf Coast. There are some in other parts, but not enough to seriously injure the crops. The crop of weevils is likely to be light in Texas on account of the drouth. The weevil is mostly to be found now in Louisiana and Mississippi, where there is most rainfall. Men from this station are now in the field to report just how many weevils are to be found in these States and in Texas. When their reports are in, estimates can easily be made as to their ravages are made in done to the crops by this insect.

As to the seventeen-years locust, which is due this year, Mr. Hunter says that their ravages are mainly in orchards and nurseries and not in the field crops. They do not extend into Texas, coming no farther than the northeast corner of Louisiana.

Visitors come from all parts of the world to this station. They are sent by their Governments to observe the methods of study of bugs and insects pest followed by the Department of Agriculture. They have come to Dal-also from Sumatra and Italy very recently and also from Russia, Argentina, Australia, Hawaii and other countries.

A Good Suggestion.

Pontotoc county should organize a County Fair Association. We have plenty of men who understand the making of such a movement a success. Our farm products will compare favorably with those produced in any Oklahoma county. Counties all over the state are meeting with success in conducting Fairs, and why shouldn't we? There is no better way to encourage better breeding of all kinds of stock, and the improving of crops, than by having a good Fair each fall.—Allen Hustler.

The little bank of Ada but as strong and with as much backing as any bank. We have no state or county money, neither have we been favored with a single penny of that One hundred forty three thousand dollars which the city of Ada recently received from the sale of a bond issue. We are pleased that our four competitors have the benefit of this big deposit, but we do protest against the gross discrimination practiced by our City Treasurer. Where is the justice? Is it a commendable act on the part of any loyal, boasting official of Ada? Think on this.

THE PASSING OF AN HISTORIC SCHOOL

The writer spent the early part of last week attending the reunion of students and alumni of Peabody college at Nashville, Tennessee. It was a great pleasure to meet again with those who had passed through the same experiences, friends who had not met for many years once more clasping hands, and the visitors were treated most royally, but it was with a feeling of sadness that they looked for the last time on the familiar scenes, realizing as they did that it was for the last time. The old college site has passed into other hands and in its place a new institution will be established that will probably amount to little more than a sort of annex to Vanderbilt university, although this fact is vigorously denied in certain quarters. Thus passes into history the old University of Nashville, of which Peabody college was the literary department.

Of all the schools of the South, west of the Alleghany mountains, there is none that has wielded influence equal to that of the University of Nashville. Under various charters and names it existed for more than 100 years and some of the foremost men of the century received their education within its walls. Governors, senators, cabinet members, army and naval officers are numbered by the score among its alumni. However, the old school is no more. For the past thirty-seven years the literary department of the university has been conducted as Peabody College for teachers, and its influence on Southern education is past all calculation. When Geo. Peabody, the great philanthropist, began his wonderful work of assisting the struggling public schools of the South shortly after the war, it was soon found that more teachers were needed, and the school was established to fill the need. A large number of scholarships were established and many a poor girl and boy, including the writer of these lines, were thereby enabled to complete a course of study that prepared them to cope more successfully with the problems of life and to accomplish greater good for their fellow men. The gift of Peabody did much to strike the shackles of poverty and ignorance from the South, and to his memory all honor should be paid.

However, in the course of events a board was appointed to handle the endowment and property that seemed bent on wiping out the past and of reducing the school to the level of an annex to Vanderbilt. The vigorous protests of the alumni of the old school had the effect of forcing the promoters of the scheme to seek a little deeper cover, but it is the opinion of the writer that Chancellor Kirkland of Vanderbilt will in course of the next five years be the undisputed master of the situation, just as he seems in a fair way of getting Vanderbilt away from the Methodist church.

YES; Some Good Printing

Costs Too Much; Too!

IT'S the same as with other good things. The temptation to charge "stiff prices" for high-class things, or high-class service, is always natural. For in all artisanship nowadays the standard is higher—the doom of the commonplace is pronounced. So that, as to printing, high-grade work is not apt to cost you more than it's WORTH: still, you can pay more for it at some places than at others—and this shop is one of the "others."

It will pay you to get our prices before placing your order for printing.

Pure in the Can Pure in the Baking

Do you know that Baking Powder undergoes a chemical reaction in the process of baking which entirely changes the nature of the original substance? It's a fact.

One of the greatest authorities on Chemistry in the country found that a loaf of bread made from a quart of flour, leavened with Cream of Tartar Baking Powder, contained 45 grains more Rochelle Salts than is contained in one Sedlitz Powder.

Remember, this drug was not in the can. It was formed by the chemical reaction that took place in baking.

That is why so many baking powders which produce impurities in the baking can be advertised as "absolutely pure." It may be pure in the can, but it is not necessarily pure in the food.

CALUMET is absolutely free from every impurity. Food leavened with it contains no Tartaric Acid, Rochelle Salts, Alum, Lime or Ammonia. It is chemically correct.

CALUMET is the only high-grade baking powder sold at a moderate price. Do not confuse it with the cheap and big can kinds, or the high-priced Trust brands. It stands alone.

WOULD DISTRIBUTE FUNDS OF INDIANS

Guthrie, Okla., June 12.—In response to his suggestion that a bill should be introduced in congress for the per capita distribution of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians' funds, Chairman James A. Harris, of the Republican state central committee today received announcement from Congressman Bird S. McGuire that he will introduce such a measure. Mr. Harris said today: "I recently wrote Mr. McGuire, following previous correspondence on the subject, that I trusted he is in a position to introduce a measure of the tribes of the monies derived from the sale of the surplus Choctaw and Chickasaw Indian lands and that he would get behind the bill and put it through at the earliest possible date. I assume that the amount to be so distributed would aggregate some four or five million dollars, and I am certain Congressman McGuire will render a great service to the Choctaw and Chickasaw people if he can bring about this payment."

Our Friends Come First.

It gives the News genuine pleasure to do a favor to its friends who stick to it through thick and thin, but some men who carry all their work to some other office and others who never make an effort to pay what they already owe seem to think that they should be shown the same consideration as the others, and seem surprised at times that the editor does not show the same readiness to publish some notice that would prove of value to them in a business way that he does to oblige those who have shown themselves our friends. It would be rank injustice to the friends of the paper to show this class the same consideration that it shows its friends. A newspaper is a business enterprise, gentlemen, and not a philanthropic institution.

STATUS OF CANCER

Results of Second International Congress Are Discussed.

Important Committee Work Has Been Carried Out and Matter of Research Has Been Organized Throughout World.

New York.—The present status of cancer is discussed in the Medical Record. The comments of the writer are based on the second international conference for the study of cancer, which was held recently in Paris. The first conference was held in Heidelberg and Frankfurt in 1906. The writer says:

"During the interim important committee work has been carried out, the matter of research has been organized throughout the world, and now in this second meeting we are in position to understand something of what has been done along the lines projected during the last four years. The special papers read and the transactions as a whole will naturally be slow in reaching the public. But the Munchener Medizinische Wochenschrift published Von Czerny's inaugural address. This was delivered before a large and distinguished audience of laymen and physicians alike. Official Paris also was largely represented.

"Statistics, despite their fallaciousness, were first discussed by the speaker. The disease seems to be on the increase among all cultured folk. But certain limited localities report a notable decrease. This discrepancy is highly significant, for it involves the whole subject of the incidence of cancer. Thus we find, say, a 30 per cent. increase in recent years in certain countries; yet if we consider only restricted localities we may be justified in concluding that the disease is not only on the wane, but actually extinct. (for example, in many restricted localities, not a single cancer death has occurred for twenty-five years).

"Surely this absence of cancer in certain out-of-the-way localities cannot be an accident. From such data nearly every theory of cancer might receive support—especially those of contagion, food, soil, inheritance, not to mention many others. Of great significance in the collection of statistics is the anatomical incidence of the disease; but to this is opposed the fact that in localities where cancer is especially prevalent we are likely to find all locations of the disease.

"Von Czerny admits the cogency of a parasitic theory of cancer as long as we follow statistics. If we pursue this plan there is as much support of such a theory as in the case of any infectious disease. Aside from the argument furnished by statistics, the bulk of the evidence tends to antagonize a parasitic theory. We find a wide line of demarcation between two groups, each of which is histologically and clinically malignant.

"The former may be described as superficial, external, slowly growing, originating in epidermal tissue—with an antecedent stage of inflammation or irritation—causing local metastases only, and hence largely amenable to prompt surgical treatment. But the other type consists chiefly of deeply placed cancers, attacking the viscera, bones, etc., rapidly growing, and highly disposed to cause metastases and cachexia. Treatment of such cases is important.

"The two types of cancer can not be sharply separated clinically. Many growths which are technically superficial and epitheliomatous may, according to their location, grow rapidly, and with the aid of their acute local metastases may quickly wear out the patient. Certain growing technically local, but inaccessible because of location, may interfere with life indirectly by causing stricture and the like.

"In fact what would be termed a relatively mild, localized and operable cancer on the surface may have the most dire effects if it occur deep in the digestive tube. It may completely interrupt the digestive processes, cause stricture of the digestive tube, and its metastases, even when local, will be of an inoperable and fatal character.

"Our victories over cancer through surgical procedures apply purely to one of these general types—to wit, that which is of slow growth and externally located, without tendency to more than accessible metastases. But cancers which come thus to operation represent an insignificant minority. The remainder are made up of neglected operable cancers and those which were inoperable from the outset.

"To come back to the original subject, it is well to forget all we know and go back to school. In very recent years it has been shown that with appropriate nutriment cancer tissue may attain huge development. These cultural peculiarities are checked up in part by the role played by marked local irritation in ordinary tissues. It must not be forgotten that many irritants may cause the same or a similar effect. Hence, a special germ, or any germ at all, might at times cause a phenomenon analogous to cancer proliferation."

Goes After Rare Beasts.

New York.—Paul J. Rainey, the big-game hunter, who has been shooting bears along the Mississippi river this winter, is going forth to hunt again. He will leave this city bound for British East Africa, Borneo and India in search of several rare wild animals which are desired for the Bronx zoo here.

YOUNG MOTHERS

The greatest crisis in a woman's life is when first she becomes a mother. All the physical strength of her nature is demanded at such times, and it is necessary that her system be thoroughly prepared for the event, in order that her health be preserved for future years. Mother's Friend is woman's safest reliance; it is a medicine for external use, composed of oils and other ingredients which assist nature in all necessary physical changes of the system. Its regular use before the coming of baby prepares the muscles and tendons for the unusual strain, aids in expanding the skin and flesh fibres, and strengthens all the membranes and tissues. Mother's Friend lessens the pain and danger at the crisis, and leaves the mother in such healthful condition that her recovery is always rapid and natural. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Postmaster Gets Increase

The postoffice department has just issued a bulletin announcing the salaries that will be paid the postmasters of the presidential offices of Oklahoma during the coming year. Most of the offices show an increase of business sufficient to entitle the postmasters to a raise of from $100 to $200 over the year just closing. Among the ones raised is the Ada office, which will pay $2,400 next year instead of $2,300 last year. It will be remembered that the increase of business in the Ada office two years ago was sufficient to entitle the postmaster to a raise of $100 last year, and the present report shows that the business growth of the town has been steady. Last year the Roff office fell from $1,300 to $1,200, but it has been restored to the former figure. Oklahoma City is raised from $3,700 to $3,800. In Muskogee there is no change.
